WAIST DANGLERS.

Ingenious Devices Which Supply the Uses of Women's Pockets.

With her chatelaine dangling from her belt the modern woman bids defiance to the man who recommends pocket books like his in her lovely gowns.

"If I must be businesslike," says she, "and have pencil and notebook always with me, I will at least make them look as attractive as possible." So she has all the sober necessities which the average man carries in his vest pocket done up in gold or silver cases with a chain on each and hangs all on her belt. Men do not have so much to say about pockets these days, for a remark of that character only serves as an introduction to the subject of new articles which "she" needs on her chatelaine.

The newest chatelaine buckles consist of a four leaf clover under a crystal. Sometimes two such crystals are used. The mirror often has the same design on the back. The latest addition to the collection of danglers is a fan shaped pin cushion with a little velvet padding at the end for the pins.

Beaded purses or handkerchief bags are the despair of most young women who cannot afford to waste money upon the bag to carry it in. They can be knit from heavy silk and trimmed with clover leaf or flower patterns in beads. The beaded bag in light colors is much worn with evening costumes.

West 20th Street, New York City.

Resolved, That the people of the Island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent."

TAKE A HALF HOLIDAY AND ATTEND THE COMMENCEMENT.

It will be noted in another column that President Stubbs of the University has invited the business men of the city to close their places of business for three or four hours and attend the Commencement exercises on next Thursday. Besides the ceremony of conferring the degrees upon the Seniors, the "Annual Address" by Horace G. Platt, Esq., of San Francisco, and the "Scholarship Address" by Mr. John C. Webb will be worth hearing and no one should miss the opportunity offered.

In addition, the dedication of the flagstaff, the gift of citizens of Reno, under the auspices of the University Cadet Corps, will take place and the ceremonies of dedication and the address will without doubt be very interesting and serve to arouse patriotism in every heart.

While it was seem out of the usual order of things to close up the business places on such an occasion, nothing will be lost by such a movement if everyone agrees to it, for the time will be after the early business hours of the morning and before the usual afternoon trade begins. Laying aside the lesson in patriotism that will be taught by the dedication of the staff and raising of the flag, the University as a State institution located in our midst is entitled to this recognition and it is to be hoped that the business men of Reno will accept President Stubbs' invitation for next Thursday.

CONDENSED W.A.C. NEWS.

A dispatch received at St. Nicolas, Hayti, from Santiago de Cuba, says: Commodore Schley has satisfied himself that he has the Spanish fleet bottled up in Santiago harbor. By clever maneuvering he made the Spaniards believe he had left the entrance to the harbor, but he returned yesterday morning. In the meantime two of the Spanish vessels had moved into view, also two torpedo boats and he is convinced the entire fleet is there. He said: "I have got them and they will never go home."

The United States cruiser St. Paul, Captain Sigsbee, captured a coal ship yesterday morning which it is believed was headed for Santiago with coal for the Spanish fleet. She carried 2,400 tons of coal and was an English vessel, the Resolute. She was sent to Key West by Captain Sigsbee under a prize crew.

The prize steamer Panama has been taken north to be sold, her cargo having been released.

Now that the Spanish fleet has been located there will be no delay in starting the military expedition against the Spanish forces in the West Indies. This has been admitted at the War Department.

Bear Admiral Dewey has informed the authorities at Manila that he will hold them responsible for the life of Captain of the Spanish gunboat Olan. The Spaniards have threatened to shoot him for surrendering to the American fleet.

The insurgents have informed the Spaniards at Manila that they will remain neutral and await events.

The Americans have captured the Spanish gunboat Leyte which was attempting to carry dispatches into a Philippine port.

The Spaniards have offered $25,000 for the head of Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader at the Philippines.

At Key West there is no doubt that Schley has located the Spanish fleet. It is now thought that the next move will be to reduce the forts at the entrance to Santiago harbor and then attack Cervera's fleet in the harbor.

It is authoritatively stated in New York that the Spanish fleet is in poor condition. Photographs of the Victoria and Maria Teresa have been secured.

Indications are more pronounced than ever for a close compact between Great Britain and the United States and what will amount to an alliance offensive and defensive to the end that Great Britain may enjoy in peace her Asiatic possessions. There is nothing official given out as yet.

The Spanish torpedo boat destroyer is said to be at San Juan, Porto Rico. The Navy Department says she has made her last cruise under the Spanish flag.

Madrid is excited at the fact that the United States cruiser Harvard was allowed to coal at Kingston, Jamaica. The Spaniards declare that Great Britain has violated her neutrality thereby.

NEVADA IS THE FIRST READY.
State Exhibit in Shape for Inspection by Visitors Now.

Nevada claims the distinction of being the first state to have its exhibit ready for the inspection of visitors, and Colonel H. B. Maxson, the energetic representative of the Mountain State, is not hiding that fact under a umbrella, but is flaunting it in the faces of his less successful competitors in a way that is calculated to spur them to redoubled efforts.

The mineral exhibit of Nevada is all arranged and the precious specimens of ore of every kind found in the territory; numerous varieties of stone including the precious onyx and many other rare kinds, all are in place in the handsome cases and they form a most attractive and interesting exhibit.

Colonel Maxson's heart is broken, however, over the sad fate that has befallen his agricultural exhibit. The material was all piled in a heap in boxes and barrels on the space in the Agricultural building assigned to Nevada, and when Colonel Maxson and his assistants finished the arrangement of the minerals they made a descent upon the agricultural collection with a view of getting this ready in short order and breaking the record in this department also. Upon inspection of the various materials constituting this exhibit it was found that the heavy rains of last week had found a hole in the roof of the building directly over the Nevada exhibit and had ruined all the flour and all the salt, there being about 1,000 pounds of both. Colonel Maxson was "stumped." The salt had been collected in the natural state in a remote portion of the State as an illustration of one of the many undeveloped resources of the territory and it could not be replaced in time for the opening. The flour was the product of the Nevada mills and freight formed a very important item in its transportation.

It was decided that the only thing to be done would be to arrange the exhibit without these commodities, but Colonel Maxson said it was a serious loss.—Omaha Bee.

"Fossil Bones."

"A little learning" may not be "a dangerous thing," but a little science is apt so to intoxicate the brain that one knows not "A from Izzard."

One day a lady said to William Pengelly, noted for his discovery of fossil bones in caves, "Do you remember that our cook once lived with you?"

"Yes."

"Well, yesterday she and the nurse were heard having the following discussion:

"Said the cook, 'Mr. Pengelly calls the bones he finds to Kent's cavern "fossil" bones, but I say how can we know the bones of the 'fossils' from the bones of other men?'

"Well," said the nurse, "I've heard as he is uncommon clever. Besides, nobody knows where the garden of Eden was, and, if so, why shouldn't it be here? And if 'twas here, where else should the bones of the apostles be?"

The two women had taken the word fossil as synonymous with fossil, or, as the cook called it, "fossil."—Exchange.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

A CHARMING YOUNG WOMAN WHO HAS BEEN VERY UNFORTUNATE.

A Discouraged Reformer—A Newspaper Run by Women—A Talented Woman Artist—Warning for Frivolous Girls. The Fetching Sunbonnet.

The charming Princess Marie of Greece, now the only surviving daughter of King George and Queen Olga and niece of the Princess of Wales, should just now be the object of much sympathy and pity. Two years ago no girl's future could have looked brighter than hers, engaged as she was to the man of her choice—a true love match—the handsome Grand Duke George of Russia, and her marriage had already been fixed. Then came the disastrous Turkish war, when the poor princess' marriage had of course to be indefinitely postponed, while in spite of all her charitable efforts this kind hearted girl was publicly insulted in the streets of herself, happily without effect, still a matter serious enough to a young girl whose nervous system has been so severely taxed of late. However, this ruffianly outrage will no doubt have the effect of improving the position of the Greek royal family, and maybe enable the princess' marriage to come off without much more delay. It is, in any case, to take place in St. Petersburg, the Grand Duke George Michaelovitch being the cousin of Queen Olga. He was born at Tiflis, in central Asia, Aug. 23, 1863, his fiancee being 22 last month. The grand duke is the brother of the Grand Duke Alexander, who married the czar's sister, and of the Grand Duke Michael, who espoused the Countess de Torby. But the marriage will be a trying ordeal to Princess Marie's royal father, she being his confidant and comforter in his great trouble.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Fetching Sunbonnet.

Golf bonnets have come to stay. In evidence to some extent last season, they promise this year to be ubiquitous. Not golf lovers alone, but all girls who believe in making the most of a fetching fashion, are laying in a goodly supply of the article. In cut and finish, set and shape, the bonnets are just like the old fashioned sunbonnet. There is the same well stitched or slatted hood, the gathered crown, the full cape and the streamers that tie under the chin or go a-flying; just as the wearer chooses. Dimity of pure white or rose pink is the material most often chosen, though fabrics with a dainty pattern of their own are also used.

The Turkey red golf bonnet is popular, as is also logical in a game whose color is scarlet. One great charm of the bonnets is that they are so made that a day in the laundry makes them as fresh as ever. The smart thing is to have a bonnet to match each shirt waist. So pretty and becoming a species of headgear is by no means relegated to golf alone, however. It is likely to be much worn in the country this year for bicycling riding, not to say strolling and driving. A pretty girl never looks prettier than when her face is in the half shadow of a sunbonnet scoop, and it is to the credit of latter day fashions that there should be a revival of so fetching a mode.—Harper's Bazaar.

PRINCESS MARIE OF GREECE.

Athens with her mother because the Greek army turned out to be a cowardly mob and the royal family had to be made the scapegoat.

And now, to crown all her misery and sufferings, comes this news of a cowardly attempt to shoot her father and make him a scapegoat.

MEMORIAL DAY.
Duly Observed by the G. A. R., Military and Civic Societies.

Early yesterday morning the citizens of Reno could be seen hurrying hither and thither carrying wreaths and baskets of flowers and everyone seemed to be taking a lively interest in the prospective program of the day. The business houses generally were closed and the day given over to a proper observance of the beautiful custom of decorating the graves of the old soldiers and those of loved ones who have gone before.

Promptly at the hour appointed, the procession under the direction of Dr. G. H. Thoma, Grand Marshal, was formed on the Plaza, opposite the Court House, and the line of march to the Hillside cemetery taken up. The procession moved in the following order:

Marshal, G. H. Thoma.
Aides, W. D. McNeilly, R. Reese, G. A. Robinson, Fred Stevens, John Chism, B. M. Coffin. Band.

U. of N. Cadet Battalion, Cadet Major D. R. Finlayson, commanding. Co. A Cadet, Captain J. W. Thompson. Co. B Cadet, Captain J. A. Fulton. General O. M. Mitchell Post, No. 69, G. A. R., A. A. Evans, Commanding. Company C, N. N. G., Captain C. H. Stoddard, Commanding.

Carriages containing Presidents of the Day, Orators and Chaplains. I. O. O. F., S. Jacobs, Marshal. Knights of Pythias, Professor Wilson Chancellor Commander.

Woman's Relief Corps, President Mrs. Mamie Dicksey. Rebecca Lodge, I. O. O. F., Mrs. A. J. McGrew.

Vocal chorus. School children in order of arrival. Flowers and organ. University Faculty. Citizens in carriages. Citizens on foot.

The procession moved up Virginia street and the military, G. A. R. and I. O. O. F. turned out with full ranks and made an imposing display. The Woman's Relief Corps, Knights of Pythias and others occupied carriages.

The University Cadets, also Company C, attracted considerable attention by their excellent appearance and drilling.

Upon reaching the Hillside Cemetery, Hon. S. Summerfield as President of the Day, called the big gathering together and in a few appropriate words told of the striking significance of the day at this time, owing to the present war causing homes and hearts to be made desolate by some loved one having been called to the scenes of the front.

He paid a tribute to the boys living and dead who had fought to save the Union in the long ago and that now we of the present moment can the better understand the sacred and beautiful ceremony of strewing sweet flowers on the graves of the dead.

Rev. F. Vernon Jones then led in a fervent prayer, followed by a song from the choir and Dr. Stubbs of the State University was introduced as the orator of the occasion.

The Doctor made a patriotic and forcible address, speaking eloquently of the soldiers of the G. A. R. and of those of the present time and paying a high tribute to the brave men who had this early lost their lives for their country and in the cause of humanity.

Colonel Monroe of the G. A. R. impressively read Lincoln's Gettysburg address while his comrades set a monument in memory of the Maine and entwined it with wreaths and flowers. From the Hillside the procession moved to the Odd Fellows Cemetery, where the I. O. O. F. took charge of the program.

W. F. Sedgewick as President of the Day, opened the exercises with a brief address, followed by prayer by L. L. Crockett, the Chaplain. The choir rendered an appropriate selection and Mr. J. W. Wright delivered the oration. Mr. Wright spoke patriotically of the loyal work of Odd Fellows for their country. He also referred to the beautiful custom of decorating the graves and the proper observation of Memorial Day.

The Wheelmen's Band then played "Nearer My God to Thee," while the floral tributes were lovingly and gently laid upon the graves of those who have long since passed away.

RABBI VOORSANGER.

His Forceful and Eloquent Address at the State University.

Long before the hour set for the Baccalaureate address by Rabbi Voorsanger at the University Sunday, the big gymnasium was crowded to almost its full capacity. Over 1200 people gathered to listen to the learned and eloquent Rabbi.

President Stubbs arose and announced the program for the closing days of the University Commencement and extended a cordial invitation to all to be present at the exercises and particularly at the President's and Faculty's reception at Lincoln Hall on this Tuesday evening. After a fervent prayer by the President and music, Rabbi Jacob Voorsanger, Professor of Semitic Languages and Literature, University of California, was presented to the audience and for over an hour the speaker held his audience spell bound.

The Rabbi took for his subject "The Ideal of Education in the Twentieth Century." He made comparisons of the progressive ideas of modern times and the primitive ideas of centuries ago. Paganism was compared to monotheism and he demonstrated by argument that notwithstanding the efforts of educators of modern times, progressive methods and the Christianizing influence of the religions, paganism had not been entirely blotted out.

Elevation and progression were gradually overcoming the brutal passions and conditions of the ancient era but even now where ignorance prevailed it was apparent that man was disposed to retrograde and even suddenly fall back to the pagan and heathenish customs of long ago. Education refined and cultivated the intellect and through this refinement the passions were controlled and society made better. Without education and refinement the mind nature in man was supreme d. lust, beastliness, social depravity, vice and a thirst for blood was necessarily the result.

He cautioned the graduates, that although they had earned their degrees and were doubtless ready to begin the active duties of practical life, they would yet have much to learn and in many instances be compelled to acquire that learning through suffering.

Experience and disappointment were exacting and hard instructors, but the lessons they taught, once learned were seldom, if ever, forgotten. He cautioned the graduates to commence their active life with pure intent and to let their ideas formed by the education and knowledge they had received be their guiding star to ultimate success. If at times they encountered disappointment, discouragement or even suffering, keep true to their guiding star and endeavor to accomplish the aim in life upon which they have built their hopes.

The closest attention was paid to every word that Rabbi Voorsanger uttered during his address, and the large audience, with one accord admitted having enjoyed a rare privilege in listening to such an eloquent and forcible speaker.

In the evening, Rabbi Voorsanger spoke to an impromptu congregation at the Congregational Church on the "Work of the Red Cross Society." On this popular theme, the Rabbi again captured his audience and gave encouragement to the Reno branch of the Society to push their wool word rapidly and effectually.

A CARD.
The Business Men of Reno Invited to Close Their Places of Business for Brief Period on Thursday.

To THE EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL:—I desire through the columns of the Journal to invite the business men of the city, so far as possible, to close their business houses on Thursday, June 2nd, from 9:30 A. M. until 1 P. M. so that the business men and their employees may attend the Commencement exercises at the University. I am aware that some difficulties may present themselves to our business men, but I am of the opinion that in most cases the difficulties may be removed by judicious planning. The Annual Commencement Address will be given by Horace G. Platt, Esq., of San Francisco, who is reputed to be one of the most eloquent and inspiring orators upon the Pacific Coast. While he is a lawyer of high standing in his profession, he is also of equal rank in matters pertaining to education. I feel that our people ought to hear him if possible. The Scholarship Address by Mr. J. C. Stubbs, formerly President Board of Education, San Francisco, will also be worthy of hearing. While Mr. Stubbs makes no claims to being a public speaker, he has the art of "putting things" very effectively.

President Stubbs arose and announced the program for the closing days of the University Commencement and extended a cordial invitation to all to be present at the exercises and particularly at the President's and Faculty's reception at Lincoln Hall on this Tuesday evening. After a fervent prayer by the President and music, Rabbi Jacob Voorsanger, Professor of Semitic Languages and Literature, University of California, was presented to the audience and for over an hour the speaker held his audience spell bound.

Dr. Stubbs explained that he was decidedly in favor of the study of voice culture and public speaking and that he was in hopes of soon having an instructor in this branch at the University.

Mr. P. A. McCarran now came forward in the address of "Spartacus to the Gladiators" and the young man displayed his wonderful natural talent in the art of elocution. His voice was excellent, his manner easy and his gestures graceful. The applause which followed pronounced him the favorite. The judges, viz., Mrs. J. E. Michaels, Hon. F. H. Norcross and Rev. F. C. Lee, retired for consultation and during the interval the High School Orchestra rendered selections. The committee found it quite difficult to decide, but after a while it was decided to divide the prize between Mr. P. A. McCarran and Miss Irene Ede, the former being awarded $15 and the latter $10.
